

Mrs. KIRKPATRICK of Arizona. Mr. Speaker, this week Arizonans are celebrating our latest success in the fight to preserve our second amendment rights.

Yesterday, a new law took effect allowing law-abiding citizens to bring guns into national parks and wildlife refuges. I was proud to join members from both parties to pass this law which ensures we can now move freely throughout State and Federal land with our firearms.

Greater Arizona is home to the most beautiful sites in the country, including thousands of miles of parkland. National parks are not just places we visit on vacation. We live and work in and around them. It was unacceptable to leave our rights behind each time we left home.

Now folks can become confident that their freedoms are protected wherever they travel in Arizona. I look forward to working with my colleagues to continue fighting to protect our constitutional right to bear and keep arms with measures like this.

HEALTH CARE

(Mr. SMITH of Nebraska asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SMITH of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, yesterday the President unveiled his $1 trillion health care bill which is nearly the same as the two previous bills which have already been rejected by the American people. The American people have rejected those bills because they raise taxes, kill jobs, and increase costs to fund a government takeover of health care virtually.

The new taxes and regulations on small businesses alone will kill jobs at a time when nearly 1 in 10 Americans are already out of work. The plan unveiled yesterday still lacks fiscal responsibility and still levels mandates on individuals and employers and still puts Federal bureaucrats in control of private citizens' personal health care decisions. However, it does nothing to bring about true reform such as ending junk lawsuits or allowing individuals to purchase affordable health insurance across State lines.

This new plan is simply more of the same as what we have seen before—a series of half-measures moving in a proven wrong direction.

AMERICAN RECOVERY AND REINVESTMENT ACT

(Mr. TONKO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TONKO. Mr. Speaker, in January of 2009, the United States economy had lost more than 750,000 jobs in just 1 month. A year later, in January 2010, the United States economy gained a few thousand jobs. This remarkable shift in the economy's performance is mainly due to the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act passed by this Congress and signed by our President.

In one year, the Recovery Act has provided $120 billion in tax cuts for 95 percent of working families as well as businesses across this country; loaned nearly $20 billion to small businesses to expand and create jobs; funded more than 12,500 transportation projects Nationwide and kept teachers, police officers, and firefighters working on the job.

Now we are seeing growth in our economy. On February 20, 2009, the Dow Jones was trading at 7,365. Yesterday, the market closed at 10,383.

The Recovery Act has worked and will continue to work throughout the course of this year. After all, it was designed to be a 2-year program.

WHERE ARE THE JOBS?

(Mr. BONNER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BONNER. Mr. Speaker, last week, the President and his administration were out in force bragging to anyone who would listen about how successful last year's trillion dollar stimulus bill has been. Vice President BIDEN left no doubt in anyone's mind when he said, "I am absolutely certain of one thing. The Recovery Act is working." Well, forgive me, Mr. Vice President, if I and millions of other Americans are a bit skeptical.

The American people continue to ask: Where are the jobs that this trillion dollar budget buster promised? Let me tell you, I would have a hard time going to my district in Monroe County, which has gone from 6 percent unemployment when the Democrats took control of the Congress in January 2007 to, last month, over 20 percent unemployment. Sadly, this is a story that is being repeated all across America.

So while the President and his Democratic colleagues in Congress are trying to remember the words to "Happy Days Are Here Again," the American people are left wondering, where are the jobs, and does anyone in Washington care about us?

TOMMY DOUGLAS FROM WEYBURN, SASKATCHEWAN

(Mr. McDERMOTT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, like everyone last night, I was watching the Olympics and I was wondering who was the most famous person in Canada. Fame is a rather fleeting thing; 60 seconds down a hill or on an ice rink.

The most famous person in Canada, by a vote on the CBC, was a politician, a Baptist minister, from Weyburn, Saskatchewan. His name is Tommy Douglas. Tommy Douglas, in 1947, brought universal health care to Saskatchewan.

Nobody remembers the people who said that they would never have health insurance in Canada. Nobody remembers all the people that fought him. He was elected five times premier of Saskatchewan because the people remembered who brought them health care. Maybe that is why former Speaker Gingrich said, "We can't let Mrs. Clinton succeed or the Democrats will be in forever." Well, that is what we are seeing again, folks. Maybe the Republicans are afraid that they will never get back in.

Nobody remembers who didn't say "yes."

BIG GOVERNMENT DOES NOT WORK

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, last week marked the first year of the trillion dollar spending bill claimed to produce jobs, but The Island Packet at Hilton Head Island reports the fact that more than 4 million jobs have been lost.

With 7.5 million jobs lost since Speaker PELOSI took over, I toured the district I represent on a "Joe Means Jobs" tour, where I found people want change from Big Government failed policies. They supported the concepts of the proven tax cuts of John F. Kennedy and Ronald Reagan as presented today in H.R. 470 to create jobs.

Sadly, the administration obsessively pushes a health care takeover, which the National Federation of Independent Business confirms will kill 1.6 million jobs.

Both parties should be working together to promote small business, the backbone of America, to create jobs.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and we will never forget September the 11th in the global war on terrorism.

Welcome Marc Conner Westbrook, the newborn son of Thad and Christy Westbrook, born February 19 at Lexington Medical Center of West Columbia, South Carolina.

My sympathy to the family of Wayne Dell of Ridgeland, the father of Chief of Staff Eric Dell of the Second District.

TODA AMERICA MANUFACTURING

(Mr. SCHAUER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. SCHAUER. I rise to tell the story of an American Recovery and Reinvestment Act project that is set to create new high-tech manufacturing jobs in my hometown of Battle Creek.

Last week, Toda America finalized a $35 million grant through the Department of Energy's Electric Drive Battery and Component Manufacturing Initiative. Without the Recovery Act,
